

To Family and Friends of Ron Kitching

My condolences on your grief, today.

Although I never had the pleasure, adventure and challenge of meeting Ron personally we communicated frequently by E-mail.

His guidance, support, advice and no-nonsense humour have provided sound counsel and are much appreciated.

His book changed my life.

His directness and his energy will be missed. He remains an inspiration.

Ron's almost daily e-mails brought a smile—and often deep belly laughs with tears in my eyes. His wit and use of humour was engaging as he sailed fearlessly into issues that centred powerfully on protecting human freedom.

Any socialists who crept into heaven through the back door will need to be wary. He'll quickly sort 'em out.

Meanwhile, we're the better for his earthly contribution.

I'm blessed to have been touched by his life, conviction, sincerity, advice and humour.

Malcolm Roberts
Brisbane